Step 3: Create a “fakebook page”

-WAIT!!! Directions coming soon! This requires some special directions to set up, so we'll do it together ☺

Renaissance Person Research Sheet

NAME:

The name of your Renaissance person: _____

ABOUT:

When and where were they born?

Brief Background/Family life/upbringing:

Brief description of their importance in history:

POSTS:

1. What does it mean to be a “Renaissance Man” or “Renaissance Woman”?

2. Is the person you researched a good example of a Renaissance Man or Woman?
Explain.

3. What is humanism?

4. Explain how the person you researched exemplifies (is a good example of) humanism?

5. What was this person's most important/famous accomplishment or achievement? Why?

FRIENDS:

Find 6 persons throughout history that this person would be friends with:

NOTE: These “friends” do not need to have been alive at the same time as your Renaissance person, but should have some logical connection to them.

Example: The Renaissance architect, Filippo Brunelleschi may have been friends with other Renaissance artists like Donatello (who he worked with) and/or could be friends with a 20th century architect like Frank Lloyd Wright.

LIKES: List six or more specific things this person would “like” if they had a Facebook account. These can be movies you think they would watch, tv shows, music, books, places. They have to MAKE SENSE and be RELEVANT to your person – not Chief Keef, Rhianna or something YOU like. (Da Vinci maybe likes art museums like the Louvre in Paris...)

ACHIEVEMENTS: List six or more specific accomplishments achieved by this person (these could be works of art, paintings, books, inventions, discoveries etc.):

ADDITIONAL INFO: To earn a “4” on the rubric, you must include visual aids such as pictures, links, youtube videos. These will NOT count as posts, but can be added to posts.
